

American Lymphedema Framework Project

Industry Partnerships

On behalf of the ALFP team, our executive and steering committees, and all our existing stakeholders, we are deeply grateful for the support received from our industry partnerships. These supporters are not just financial sponsors, but partners in helping the ALFP to move toward achieving the mission to improve the awareness and management of lymphedema in the United States.

Support has been provided to the ALFP by the American Cancer Society, through The Longaberger Company, a direct selling company offering home products including handcrafted baskets made in Ohio, and the Longaberger Horizon of Hope Campaign, which provided a grant to the American Cancer Society for breast cancer research and education.

American Lymphedema Framework Project

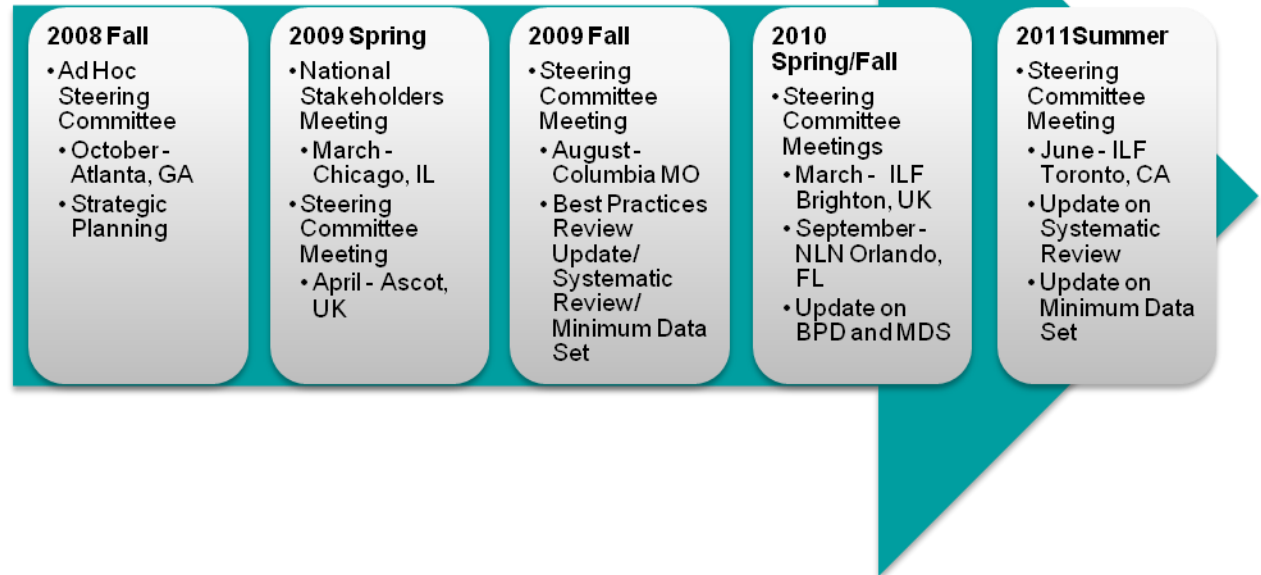

The ALFP is a national multidisciplinary collaborative initiative developed under the executive leadership of Jane Armer, PhD, RN, FAAN, Director; Joseph Feldman, MD, CLT-LANA, Co-Director; along with Janice Cormier, MD, MPH; and a steering committee composed of nationally-recognized clinical experts and investigators in the field of lymphedema. Headquarters for the ALFP are located at the University of Missouri Center for Lymphedema Research, Practice, and Health Policy (CLERPHP).

ALFP Mission

The mission of the American Lymphedema Framework Project (ALFP) is to improve the management of lymphedema and related lymphatic disorders in the United States while contributing to global international improvement in this field. This will be achieved by defining best practices and developing a minimum data set to improve lymphedema outcomes. The ALFP will establish a leadership role in lymphedema risk reduction, treatment, education, health policy, and research. These outcomes will be achieved through a partnership among all lymphedema stakeholders.
